Introduction

General Information

Post Office box and caller service fees are not uniform, but vary for reasons such as limits imposed by non-cost-based fees that previously were charged and because of changes in real estate values, costs, and other factors at the Post Office™ providing the service.

Caller service provides premium service for a fee to any customer requiring more than free carrier service or the largest installed box size, or to any customer who is required to use caller service by standard. Caller service allows a customer to pick up mail at a Post Office call window or loading dock when the office is open. Caller service, which also uses a box number, is distinct from general delivery service.

For more information on Post Office box service and caller service, see Mailing Standards of the United States Postal Service, Domestic Mail Manual (DMM®) 508.4 and 508.5. The DMM is available on the Postal Explorer® Web site at pe.usps.com.
